Executive Summary

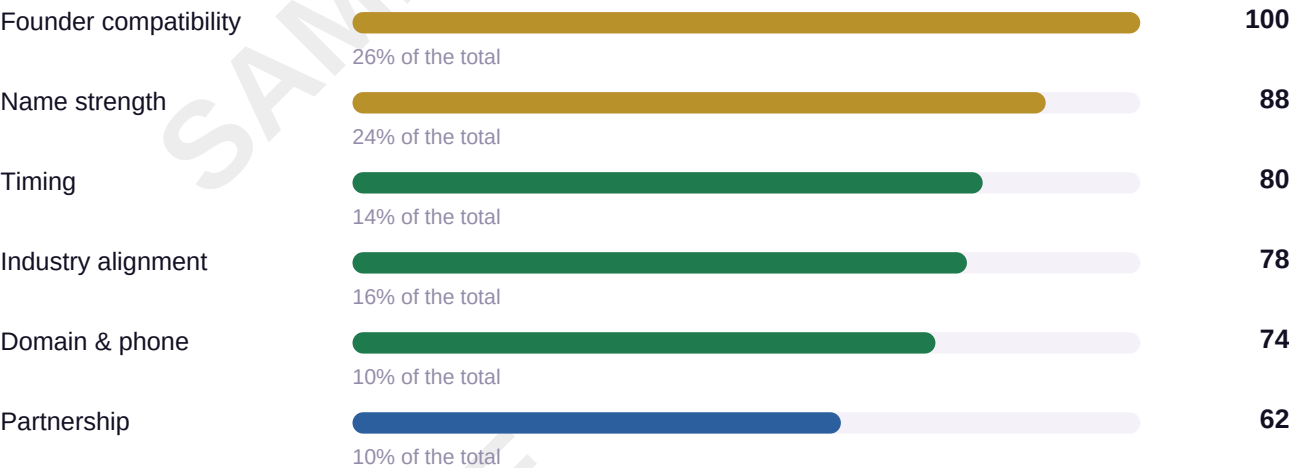

A solid combination with one or two areas worth tightening.

The clearest gain available is in partnership.

Read as strong on the scale this method uses. 100% of the inputs the score can take were supplied, and the reading is weighted across those.

How the score is built

Six dimensions, each weighted by how much the source material relies on it. A dimension with no input supplied is left out of the average rather than scored as zero.

NEEDS ATTENTION

Partnership

The three things worth doing first

1 Separate the remits before the friction becomes structural

The material does not ask you to dissolve a partnership over a number. It asks you to stop two people deciding the same things, to give remedies to both rather than one, and to consider a third party where the split cannot be made cleanly.

2 Put the free behavioural remedies in place first

They cost nothing, they are the ones the source material trusts most, and they are the only remedies it claims can stand alone. The remedies section lists the ones attached to your numbers.

3 Re-read the profile after each change, not after all of them

Changing the name, the line and the launch date at once leaves you unable to tell which one moved anything. The method is a set of rules, not a black box, and it rewards changing one input at a time.

How to read what follows

Numbers are given twice

A total appears as the compound first and the reduced digit second — 19/1, for instance. The method reads the compound as the specific statement about that name or date, and the digit as the general one. Where they disagree, this report says which is being applied.

Scores are relative, not absolute

Each figure out of 100 is the engine's reading of one dimension against the rules for that dimension. It says how well the inputs agree with each other, not how well the business will do. Eighty-five and above reads as excellent, seventy and above as strong, fifty-five and above as moderate.

The hedging is deliberate

Sentences here say the method reads, the source material states, this suggests. That is the register the material itself uses, and it is accurate: this is an interpretive system with stated rules, not a measurement. Nothing in this document is a prediction, and nothing in it is financial, legal or medical advice.

SECTION 02

Name Recommendations

Each candidate is valued, read against its compound, then scored against your own numbers and your sector. The ranking is the engine's, not an opinion.

#	NAME	COMPOUND	DIGIT	READING	SCORE
1	Kadam Traders	33	6	Excellent	89
2	Aurora	19	1	Good	89
3	Nimbus Forge	46	1	Good	87
4	Verto Solutions	63	9	—	77
5	Aurexa	20	2	Avoid	50

Highest scoring: Kadam Traders

Compound 33 reducing to 6, scoring 89 out of 100. "This number has no potency of its own, and consequently has the same meaning as the 24."

Spelling alternatives

One-letter edits to “Aurora” that land the total on 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 9 — the numbers your chart accepts. These are spellings, not new names: the source material prefers the smallest change that moves the number.

SPELLING	TOTAL	WHAT CHANGED	SCORE
Aurora (current)	19/1	your current spelling	89

No allowed edit improves on the current spelling

Every single-letter variant the engine could construct scores at or below the 89 your present spelling already reaches. The source material's next move in that position is the surname, or a second word in the trading name, rather than distorting the first one further.

Business Name Analysis

The name is valued letter by letter using the Chaldean system. The total is reported as the compound first and the reduced digit second, because the method reads the compound as the specific statement about a name and the digit as the general one.

Compound 19 — The Sun / The Prince of Heaven

GOOD

What the classical reading says: "Regarded as fortunate and extremely favorable." Promises happiness, success, esteem and honour, and success in one's plans for the future.

READ AS A BUSINESS NAME

For root 1 — king (Sun) + commander (Mars). Also karmic (ego, will not bow, will not ask for help).

Verdict on this compound as a trading name

Suitable — strongest 1-compound; but ego/partnership risk.

The registered name and the spoken name differ

The registered form totals 55/1 and the brand people actually say totals 19/1. The method reads the spoken name as the operative one, so that is the number carried through the rest of this report. The registered form still matters where it appears on invoices and contracts, but it is not what the market repeats.

WHAT THIS NUMBER SUITS

As a business-name number, 1 suits energy, oil, solar and anything that runs on drive — the source material groups 1 and 9 together as the two energy numbers. Sports and physically demanding trades sit in the same group.

SECTION 04

Founder Analysis

Everything in this section comes from one date: 14 March 1986. The birth number is read from the day alone, the destiny number from the whole date, and the grid from the digits that make it up.

Birth number 5 — The trade number

Five is Mercury: speech, intelligence and the movement of money. It is the most permissive number in the source material — no trade is forbidden to it, and no partnership is blocked.

Five is given to Mercury, and the keyword set is speech, intelligence, trade and the movement of money. The source material treats 5 as the digit that carries a business rather than the one that founds it.

HOW THE METHOD READS THIS NUMBER AT WORK

The verdict is either, with business slightly preferred. The source material describes a 5 as able to score in any field it is put in, and calls it a master key.

Five is the only number in the source material with a clean partnership record. Nothing is blocked. That single fact is why the method recommends 5 as the default company-name number when a business has many stakeholders and no way to satisfy all of them.

Growth is distribution-led and turnover-led rather than margin-led. The worked example in the source material is a co-operative brand totalling 5 whose whole model is volume moving through a network.

TRAITS THE SOURCE MATERIAL ATTACHES TO IT

- Quick, verbal and persuasive
- Entertaining, and aware of the effect
- Adaptable to any room and any sector
- Restless, and prone to starting more than it finishes
- Commercially literate almost by default
- Sensitive under the confidence

Birth and destiny land on the same number

Both core numbers read 5. The method treats a doubled core as concentration rather than as strength — the qualities of the number arrive without dilution, and so do its failure modes. Where the source material warns about 5, it warns twice as loudly here.

The Lo Shu grid

The digits of the date of birth dropped into a fixed 3 by 3 layout. A cell holding a digit more than once is read as emphasis; an empty cell is read as something to build deliberately. Zeros are discarded, not placed.

GRID STRENGTH

84 • Strong

A well-connected chart.

4 of the eight planes complete. Present: 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8 and 9. Absent: 2 and 7.

Filled = present Dotted = absent Gold = repeated

PLANES THAT COMPLETE

Golden Plane 4-5-6

The strongest single indicator of scale in the whole chart.

Will Plane 9-5-1

Endurance through the difficult early years of a venture.

Thought Plane 4-3-8

Well suited to strategy, advisory and planning roles.

Practical Plane 8-1-6

The strongest general indicator for running a business.

NUMBERS THAT ARE ABSENT

The method is explicit that a complete grid is close to unheard of, and that an absent number is a note rather than an alarm.

Number 2

Reading other people intuitively is harder; sensitivity and patience in negotiation need to be built deliberately.

NUMBERS THAT REPEATNumber 1, 2 times

Balanced self-expression.

Number 5, 3 times

Restless, needs constant change.

The rest of this report

This preview stops here. The full document continues with the sections below, worked out against your own numbers rather than the sample profile used to build this file.

- Founder and Business

Whether the name agrees with the founder — the heaviest single input in the whole reading.

- Industry Compatibility

The sector read against the number, the sectors the method favours for it, and the ones it...

- Phone, Domain and Premises

The business line read pair by pair, the domain total, and the unit, floor and building numbers.

- Risks and Considerations

Everything in the profile the method reads as a caution, ordered by how much it moves.

- Recommendations

The actions, ordered so the largest gain comes first, with the effort each one costs.

- Method and Disclaimer

Which system produced these numbers, and the limits of what a reading like this can claim.

Every figure is your own

A report is generated from the details you enter, not selected from a library of prewritten readings. Two businesses with the same name and different founders produce different documents.
